Running head: ETHICAL BEHAVIOUR IN COUNSELLING PRACTICE 1 Incorporating Professional Standards for Ethical Behaviour in Counselling Practice Models for ethical behaviour in the counselling and psychotherapy professions are primarily based on Kitchener's principle ethics model. If not the most important feature of professional counselling, "respect for the client" is definitely high up on the priority list. Geldard and Geldard (2005) explain that regardless of who the client is, and regardless of their behaviour, the client has come to the counsellor for assistance and deserves to be treated as a person of worth and value. Written evaluation of counselling role play 1 Written evaluation of counselling role play In counselling, as in general life, the quality of the relationships we form are largely determined by the time and effort we invest in developing and sustaining the intimacy of these bonds. Counselling. LIMITATIONS ON COUNSELLORS COMPARED TO OTHER PROFESSIONS THAT USE COUNSELLING SKILLS. The Ethical Framework is made up of rules and regulations within which Counsellors and Psychotherapists strive to achieve in order to attain a high professional standard. It protects client and counsellor and compounds values, principles and personal moral qualities for counsellors to work ...
