Jeff C. April 8, 2014 at 10:04 am I bought this gun for $100 as part of the Sig promotion—buy a .45 1911 and get the .22 for $99.99. So far it has not malfunctioned, but another gent at the range had trouble with his the same day. More than 100 years after God delivered His pistol design to John Moses Browning, the 1911 semi-automatic pistol is still as popular as Moran Atias at a pool party. Not to miss a trick, SIG SAUER is churning out several versions of the venerable handgun. The 1911 Nitron is the gunmaker's "standard" model (i.e., the one with the fewest bells and whistles).
