

Download Successful Models Of Community Long Term Care Services For The Elderly

Long-term care (LTC) is a variety of services which help meet both the medical and non-medical needs of people with a chronic illness or disability who cannot care for themselves for long periods. Long term care is focused on individualized and coordinated services that promote independence, maximize patients' quality of life, and meet patients' needs over a period of time. Are Secure Neighbourhoods in Long Term Care Helping or Harming? In this session we will focus on the common practice of offering specialized “secure” areas with locked doors to support people living with dementia. Introduction Consumer demand is increasing for flexible, responsive home and community-based services (HCBS), including adult day services, as options to institutional care. Our solutions allow the long-term care provider to invest in service delivery excellence in their core post-acute and institutional level of care services.
